Alignment between IT & Security teams unlocks powerful business outcomes

The barriers between IT and Security must be broken down to respond to changes in work culture and the balance of employer-employee needs. IT and Security teams are at the center of an organization's productivity and efficiency, and a combined effort to develop organizational priorities and goals creates a new level of performance and security that will become a competitive advantage for organizations.

Ivanti Neurons — our foundational technology platform — is a cloud-scaled, intelligent hyperautomation layer that enables:

- proactive healing
- user-friendly security across the organization
- an employee experience that delights users

Ivanti Neurons delivers an integrated user experience, common SaaS structure, common reporting in business intelligence and more.
